

Sasikumar M, Head Component Engineering, Rolls Royce India

Completed MS in Thermal Engineering from IIT Madras, more than 18years of experience in Engineering Design and strategic outsourcing. Has worked in GE Aviation and currently serves as the Head of component engineering at Rolls Royce India operations in Bengaluru where his roles have been leading engineering supplier teams in the area of Gas Turbine engine Performance, Health monitoring, Fluid systems design, Aero-CFD, Engine controls and System software development, Leading the development of Aero Engine System and Sub-Systems Design.

Led the development and successful implementation of new operating model in his company to improve the operational efficiency with Indian Engineering suppliers for the global Engineering sites of the company.

He is a Core member of RR India Strategy and Business development, led corporate programmes such as India Innovation and India early career recruitment. Contributed to RR India strategy development and project managed the set-up of RR Aerospace campus at Bangalore.